Mayor John Dowless

Orange County "Pauses Further Action" on Orange-Holden-Gatlin Intersection

Sadly, any long-term fixes to the misaligned intersection of Holden-Orange-Gatlin (HOG) have been "paused" by Orange County again. They believe the "expenditures outweigh the benefits" for any of the proposed four realignments that have been studied, considering available financial resources and park impact.

As you may recall, Edgewood restarted discussion six years ago and petitioned the support of Orange County, after earning tentative support from Metroplan and FDOT, for a realignment of Holden with Gatlin through the corner of Cypress Grove Park. The proposed realignment would have required less than 2 acres of Cypress Grove Park, but Edgewood would have compensated by de-annexing nearly 10 acres of adjacent industrial land to the County for park expansion, resulting in a net gain of parkland. Commissioner Mayra Uribe, however, made the motion to kill the proposal and recommended another study, this time an alignment through the Fort Gatlin Shopping Center. As expected, this newest study found that alignment to be much more expensive and would require the taking of many more businesses and homes.

Despite our significant disappointment with the County's decision, the City had an opportunity to meet with County staff on March 13th. Everyone agreed that the operational and safety issues stemming from the intersection's current configuration will continue.

Although the long-term solution is paused, two short term fix proposals came out of the March 13th meeting, that include: 1) restriping the Orange Avenue northbound lanes south of Holden to enhance queuing for the northbound/westbound left turn movement; and 2) evaluating and adjusting signal phase timing at both the intersections. Additionally, the County staff proposed exploring solutions that could be implemented with minimal right-of-way acquisition, such as modifying the Holden/Orange intersection to accommodate a second northbound/westbound left turn lane.

We are hopeful that the County will "un-pause" the resolution of the traffic jams and safety issues at these intersections sooner than later, be it through additional funding mechanisms or another circumstance, and that we will not face another decade-long delay with a pattern that has existed since the 1970s.

Sincerely,
John Dowless
Mayor

2025 Municipal Election

Congratulations to Mayor John Dowless and Councilmember Richard A. Horn, who will serve the City of Edgewood for another term. There was no municipal election on March 11, 2025, as the incumbents for Mayor and Councilmember were the only ones to qualify for those open seats.

Edgewood's Sidewalk Improvements

By: Sandra Riffle, City Clerk

City Clerk
Sandra Riffle

The City of Edgewood will begin sidewalk improvements this year. Following a city-wide assessment conducted by staff, areas requiring immediate attention have been identified, paving the way for targeted repairs.

The initial phase of this project will commence in the Waterwitch area along with a few other high priority areas. We will address sidewalks that exhibit cracking, uneven surfaces, and other forms of damage. These improvements are designed to create safer and more navigable pathways for all residents.

If you do not live in the Waterwitch area, do not be concerned that we overlooked you. The City is adopting a strategic approach, prioritizing repairs based on our assessment, ensuring that resources are allocated effectively to address the most pressing issues.

Your patience and cooperation are appreciated as we work to improve our sidewalks. Stay tuned for further updates as we progress towards project completion.

A Clearer View: Edgewood's Updated Signage Rules

By Stacey Salemi, Code Compliance

As your Code Compliance Officer, I am reaching out with some important news regarding window signage in our city. The City Council recently approved some updates to our existing regulations, with the goal of improving the visual consistency and appeal of our business districts. We know your window displays are valuable part of your business, and we're here to help you navigate these changes smoothly.

Code Compliance Officer
Stacey Salemi

These new changes were mandatory by December 31, 2024. To avoid a Code Compliance Violation, review the updated regulations and make any necessary changes to your window signage to ensure compliance.

Transparency: All windows and glass doors must remain transparent, except for permitted signage. Any window coverings should be consistent in color and material.

Size Limits: Window signs are now limited to a maximum of 6 square feet per sign, or a combined total of 6 square feet for two signs. This measurement is determined by drawing a rectangle around the entire text area, including images and decorative elements.

Neon & LED Signs: Neon and LED tubing signs are allowed under specific conditions, including size restrictions and lighting requirements. These signs are only permitted in one window facing a road or parking lot, with a maximum area of 3 square feet.

Decals: A dedicated area of 9 inches by 9 inches on one door or a window adjacent to a door can be used for decals. Multiple decals should be stacked or positioned side-by-side in a straight line.

My goal as the City of Edgewood Code Compliance Officer is to gain voluntary compliance regarding code issues and educating the public on city codes. Following codes and maintaining your property helps make the City of Edgewood a beautiful and safe city! If you have any questions, please email me at: code.compliance@edgewood-fl.gov

SAVING WATER OUTDOORS

Lawn Maintenance

When fertilizing, using the correct amount of fertilizer can save water and money, reduce the number of pollutants reaching waterways, and result in a healthier landscape. Overfertilizing will aggravate pest problems, stimulate excessive plant growth, and demand frequent irrigation.

Fertilizers should be used only when specific nutrient deficiency symptoms are evident. These deficiencies can be determined by conducting a soil test or analysis. Florida-friendly lawns require only moderate amounts of supplemental fertilizer once they are established.

Avoid overuse of fertilizers, especially near the water's edge. Rain and lawn watering can wash excess fertilizer into water bodies, where excess nutrients cause algal blooms and weed growth. The amount of fertilizer to apply depends on a number of factors, such as grass species, soil type and permeability, and your location in the state.

Apply fertilizers sparingly and follow the manufacturer's directions on the bag, in terms of the amount per application. Know exactly the square footage of your lawn that the bag of fertilizer is intended to cover.

Florida soil is naturally high in phosphorus, and a "no phosphate" fertilizer is fine for most mature lawns. Apply a phosphate fertilizer only if a soil test demonstrates the need. For information specific to your area, contact the local County Cooperative Extension Service.

The best fertilizers for healthy landscapes and the environment are those that contain a high percentage of slow-release nitrogen. Slow-release products stay in the soil to supply nutrients to plants over a longer period of time. The product label will identify organic, slow-release or controlled release nitrogen, sulfur-coated, IBDU (15N-isobutylidene divrea), or resin-coated.

Fertilize only during the growing season, which can vary depending on where you live in Florida. Allow a month between autumn application and the first freezing temperatures, which will make new growth less vulnerable to frost.

Use pesticides, herbicides and fungicides only when needed, and apply them responsibly, following the label's directions.

Cut your grass at the highest recommended height for your turf species or the highest setting on your lawn mower. Cut no more than one-third of the grass length at one time to encourage grass roots to grow deeper.

Keep mower blades sharp for a clean cut; dull blades tear grass, opening it to disease and increasing its need for water and fertilizer. Leave short grass clippings where they fall. The clippings reduce the lawn's need for water and fertilizer. Remove thick patches of clippings so that the clippings will not kill the grass underneath.

Stressed Lawns

While it's important to know and follow watering restrictions, it is also critical to not water just because it's your day. Irrigate your lawn when it shows signs of stress from lack of water.

Possible signs include:

- Grass blades are folded in half lengthwise on at least one-third of your yard.
- Grass blades appear blue-gray.
- Grass blades do not spring back, leaving footprints on the lawn for several minutes after walking on it.

Ninth Annual Santa Fly-In

A Thank you to Our Community from City Hall

The Ninth Annual Santa Fly-In was a resounding success, bringing holiday cheer to over a thousand Edgewood residents and visitors! City Hall transformed into a winter wonderland thanks to the dedicated efforts of the Edgewood Police Department and community volunteers.

The festivities kicked off with a dazzling holiday performance by the talented dancers from The Dancers Pointe. Excitement peaked as Santa Claus made a grand entrance, greeted by Mayor Dowless and Police Chief DeSchryver.

In a heartwarming gesture, Santa presented Mayor Dowless and the City of Edgewood with a special key to the North Pole. The Edgewood Police Department ensured the safety of all attendees throughout the event, ensuring a joyful and safe experience for everyone.

The magic of this event was made possible by the Drummond family and Pete Madison. We're immensely grateful for their generous support and for Pete's expert piloting, bringing Santa's helicopter safely to our celebration.

Edgewood's New Business Initiative

By: Ashley Pagán, Administrative Assistant

The City of Edgewood is excited to announce a new initiative designed to highlight and support the city's growing business community: the "New Business Welcome Banner" rental program. This innovative program aims to draw attention to new businesses opening or relocating within Edgewood, ultimately boosting their visibility and attracting customers.

Recognizing the significant number of people who drive through Edgewood daily, the city believes these vibrant banners will serve as a welcoming beacon, encouraging residents and visitors alike to explore the diverse offerings of local businesses. The program allows businesses to rent a "New Business Welcome Banner" for a limited period, placing it strategically near their location to maximize exposure.

The City of Edgewood encourages all new businesses to take advantage of this opportunity to make a strong first impression and become an integral part of the Edgewood community. Details about the rental process, placement guidelines, and other relevant information can be found on the City of Edgewood's website or at City Hall.

Congratulations Officer First Class Chris Meade: Officer of the Year for 2024

By: Police Chief Dean DeSchryver

As the Chief of the Edgewood Police Department, I am proud to announce Police Officer First Class Chris Meade as the department's 2024 Officer of the Year.

Officer Meade has been with the Edgewood Police Department for over 20 years. During this time, he has honed his skills as an instructor in many disciplines and currently serves as the department's lead in-service training instructor and field training officer program coordinator.

During 2024, Officer Meade oversaw the training of three new police officers as they progressed through the field training program. He personally served as a Field Training Officer to two of the three officers. He meticulously maintains the training records of all 14 sworn officers to ensure they are trained to the highest standards and maintain their state certification. He routinely seeks out new and innovative training techniques and opportunities.

Officer Meade handled several mental health calls while working at a church located in the city. Officer Meade worked to partner the church with Central Florida Behavioral Hospital to establish a program that can help those in need of professional mental health services without having to involve the police. One interaction with a person experiencing a mental health crisis led to Officer Meade earning an Award of Commendation.

As the lead firearms instructor, Officer Meade altered the department's firearms training to adapt to new firearm qualification standards set forth by the Florida Department of Law Enforcement. While other agencies saw an uptick in officers failing to qualify under the new standards, our agency officers improved and all officers qualified under the new tougher standards.

Officer Meade serves on the Awards Committee and Policy Review Committee. Officer Meade currently holds instructor certifications in firearms, general subjects, CPR, TASER, chemical agents, reality-based training, SIMS marking cartridges, and DART (firearm simulation training system). He is also a certified armorer of Glock firearms and department patrol rifles. Officer Meade serves as the Department's union representative and holds a Board of Director's position with the West Central Florida Police Benevolent Association.

Officer Meade accomplished these feats while serving as a full-time patrol officer. Officer Meade serves the City with Excellence, Professionalism, and Dignity. I am proud to award him with the department's 2024 Officer of the Year Award.

Chris will be presented with the Officer of the Year Award at the April City Council Meeting.
